God promises (most) these things are really going to happen - literally - and in (something near) this order

A few already have

But they will all be finished in a little more than a day, or to us, in a little more than a thousand years from now

*This chronology will never cease needing correction, improvement and expansion, but it is nonetheless 'cutting edge' in the natural eternal progression of The Word of God'.

 Judgment periods are averages based on the number of judgments (except The 7th Seal, 5th and 7th Trumpets, and 7th Plague) and the time available, and I offer two scenarios: 1) longer time periods and escalating severity of judgments being generally uniform from half to half or 2) from round to round (except The 5th Trumpet). And evidently, the effects of some judgments end or lessen sometime before the start of the following judgment, and the effects of some judgments will extend to the end or beyond The Great Tribulation, but God may, generally, limit the duration of judgments to something like 2 or 3 months in the first half, and maybe 5 months or less in the second half, to give 'repentance time' before the start of the next judgment, and/or to give time between rounds or halves, and except that all this 'repentance time' in the last round may be added to the 6th Plague Judgment, the evidence for all these conclusions naturally and progressively presenting itself with continuing meditation in RGT. So the judgment periods I have designated are more likely the time between the starts of new judgments, not as much how long they will last, but just as likely may be somewhat compressed together to allow for 'repentance time', except where otherwise specified by conditions or John.
